THE MACKEY ROMANCE

FROM A NEVADA MINING GULCH TO MARBLE PALACES.

The Poor Nevada Widow Whose Daughter Has Just Wedded the Prince Colonna—Brief Sketch of a Romantic Career.

[Augusta Constitutionalist.]

Some twenty odd years ago there dwelt in California a family of three persons, father, mother and daughter. The latter was a mere child. All were young. The father was a physician. Unfortunately he injured his not very extensive practice by intemperance. His habits became so dissipated that the poor wife, despairing of his reformation, and also of the possibility of independent action on her own part to secure support for herself and child, proposed a separation. The man agreed to it; but he was not put out like "Rip Van Winkle." He was assured that while he lived she would never cease to help him, and that when he mended his ways their relations should be restored. He departed to cure himself, if possible, and become worthy of the woman who, sorely beset, undertook the maintenance of the family. Encouraged by his wife's prayers, letters and heroic conduct, the doctor redeemed himself. At least he thought so, and his poor wife was more than willing to believe it. He returned to her home and heart, warmly welcomed back to both.

Unluckily he had either miscalculated his will power, or the demon of indulgence was simply asleep, and by no means dead within him. He went back to his cups, and very soon the skele ton finger of poverty was laid upon his domestic affairs. The devoted wife, unwilling to undertake an experimental separation, and unable to remain where she was, determined to try what change of scene would do for this miserable man, who, naturally kind, talented and wholesome, seemed to be insanely abandoned to the evil of strong drink. Just at this crisis rumors had reached California of the Comstock lode discovery, and thither many of the mining population drifted. Across the Sierras to Virginia City this little and wretched family journeyed.

The doctor pulled himself together for a while and did some business, but his health was gone, and very soon he died. Widow and orphans were left in the very depths of poverty. The generous miners had clubbed together to bury the doctor. They made up a purse for the mother and child from time to time, and thus saved both from sheer deprivation of food, shelter and raiment. There was at that time superintendent of one of the mines a sturdy young Irishman, who, from the lowest rounds of the ladder, had begun to push his way to fortune. He was not then more than moderately well off, and little dreamed of the Monte Cristo casket in store for him. He used to carry the weekly or monthly stipend to the widow, and his visits to her became more and more frequent. At last he married her, and her days of fear on the score of poverty were over. She possessed a well-to-do husband, and certain to make his way in the world.

But in the days of distress the unhappy woman had resorted to the morphine habit, and could not, of her own efforts release herself from it. A young physician at Virginia City, who had recently graduated in France, informed her that if she would visit Paris and put herself implicitly under the care of his old master there, her cure could be guaranteed. While the husband remained to uncover, with the present junior senator from Nevada, the richest silver deposit the world has ever known, the wife crossed the seas and submitted to a rigorous medical treatment. It was successful after many months of endurance. Meanwhile, the famous California and Consolidated Virginia mines were penetrated by the husband, and the world-renowned bonanza, of which he was principal owner, made him at least forty times a millionaire. The wife in Paris, now perfectly cured and blooming, at once rose into prominence and celebrity, for how could the marvel-loving Parisians help adoring a woman whose talents and beauty were matched by such fabulous wealth so romantically discovered? For years this lady, who is no other than Mrs. John Mackey, has been a silver queen in the most splendid capital of Europe. She has lived in palaces. Noblemen and men of genius have paid court at her shrine.

Now all Paris, and therefore all the universe, is in a ferment over the recent marriage of Miss Mackey and the Prince Colonna. The drift is naturally to Rome, the City of the Soul, and to Italian nobility. It is a miraculous bridging of the chasm that lies between the mining gulch of the Nevada mountains and St. Peter's church, where stands, in supernal splendor, "the grandest dome that mortal hand has painted against God's loveliest sky." Little did the widow of the wretched doctor of Virginia City imagine that she would fairly roll in wealth, dwell in palaces, be courted by church and state, be familiarly associated with the proudest names of the descendants of the crusaders, and finally become the mother-in-law of a Prince Colonna, whose nobility dates back almost to the time of Saladin. The family name is as famous as any in history, and the heir of the Colonna family, at 27 years of age, wedded the daughter of the poor doctor who fell by the wayside in Nevada, and sleeps his last sleep in that stony desert.

A Converted Chinaman's Work.

[New York Cor. Inter Ocean.]

A glance into a room in the Chinese quarter discloses a picture which held me for a closer examination. It was Chinese workmanship. The life size form of a man was clothed in a flowing, flowered robe; his feet were in thick soled shoes, and a queue hung from under an Oriental cap, to all essentials it was like the Chinamen as depicted on fan and tea chests. But the face puzzled me for a while. The eyes were oblique, but the other features were Caucasian, and there was a full beard. Something in the expression piqued my curiosity. Turning to the placard on the door post I read the inscription: "Chinese Mission." Then the truth dawned upon me. That was a Chinese picture of our Savior. To make sure I entered and inquired:

"Him Clist," the man in charge blandly admitted.

It was the entirely reverential work of a converted Chinaman.

A thoughtful genius comes forward and suggests a prevention against the fire evil. It is plain to perceive the soil of Boston is thin, so will get wells, keep them full of water, and thus put out the fire at its factor they get started on their career. Hip.

WANTED.

[Duncan Macgregor in New York Times.]

Wanted: Men.
Not systems fit and wise,
Not faiths with rigid eyes,
Not wealth in mountain piles,
Not power with gracious smiles,
Not even the potent pen;
Wanted: Men.

Wanted: Deeds.
Not words of winning note,
Not thoughts from life remote,
Not fond religious airs,
Not sweetly languid prayers,
Not love of scent and creeds;
Wanted: Deeds.

Men and deeds.
Men that can dare and do;
Not longings for the new,
Not pratings of the old;
Good life and action bold—
These the occasion needs,
Men and deeds.

The Swallow's Marvelous Speed.

[Cor. Edinburgh Review.]

Among all the migrants the swallow has, perhaps, attracted most attention in all ages and countries. It arrives in Sussex villages with remarkable punctuality; none of the migrants perform their journeys more rapidly than the swallows and their congeners. A swift with young ones, or during migration, covers from 1,500 to 2,000 miles a day. It begins business, feeding its young, about 3 o'clock a. m., and continues it till 9 p. m. At that season, therefore, the swift spends nearly eighteen hours upon the wing, and it has been computed that at the ordinary rate of traveling of this very fast bird it would circumnavigate the globe in about fourteen days. At a push, if it were making forced flights, the swift would probably keep on the wing, with very brief intervals of rest during fourteen days. The speed of the whole tribe is marvelous, and seems the more so when compared with that of the swiftest of animals that depend for their progressive powers on legs, however many legs they may be furnished with.

The hare is swift, yet in Turner's well-known picture of rain, steam, and speed the hare's fate is sealed; she will be run over and crushed by the engine rushing in her wake. The swiftest animals would soon break down at forty miles an hour, which the swallow unconsciously accomplishes merrily twittering all the while. All the swallow tribe are found in every part of Great Britain, including Shetland, except the swift, which is not found in those islands.

The Wines of Ancient Times.

[Cleveland Leader.]

The celebrated ancient wines seem rather to have been syrups or extracts than wines. They were undoubtedly sweet and little fermented, and Chaptal, in his "Elements of Chemistry," declares it to be impossible to suppose that they could have obtained any spirit, or possessed, in consequence, any especially intoxicating properties. The wines so valued by the Greeks and Romans contained much saccharine matter and little alcohol. Aristotle says the wines of Arcadia were so thick, either by boiling or by adulteration, that they dried up in the goat-skins, and the people would scrape the dried material off and dissolve it in water. The thick and fat wines of Chios, Thasos Lesbos, and Crete were probably of this character.

The pitched and pickled wines are doubtless the wines the Romans kept to such extraordinary age. Horace boasts of drinking some seventy years old, and one kind is said to have been kept in Rome more than 100 years. The celebrated Opimian wines, which took the name of the consul who lived when they were first made, are spoken of by Pliny as having been preserved until his time, nearly 200 years, and so excellent were they that money could not buy them.

How Grit Succumbs to Climate.

[Exchange.]

A Florida letter says, that in the struggle which ensued there between the grit of the Yankee settler and the climate the former invariably succumbs, and the state will never be converted into Yankeeland. Man can not shape the weather, but the weather does mold the man. The invincible sunshine and the warm compulsive rains soon have their influence upon the most energetic immigrant. It is not to be expected that a person who can pick his breakfast from an orange tree and gather a dinner of bananas should develop the energy of a person who must plant his crops, and cultivate and dig them before he can enjoy them.

So the northern man who goes to Florida and builds him a house the first month of his stay, and plants his grove the next, gradually finds himself falling into slip-shod ways. His fences get to be disreputable, his house is not fresh painted, his walks are neglected, his garden goes to weeds, and he and his wife and children settle into the easy untidiness which befits the latitude. It is the latitude which governs.

Smoking Again Investigated.

[Arkansaw Traveler.]

By a long series of experiments, a Russian physician, Dr. Zulinski, has proven that tobacco smoke is distinct poison, although its action upon men is very slight unless inhaled in considerable quantities. He has found that the poisonous property is not exclusively due to the nicotine, for tobacco smoke contains a second toxical principle called colodine, as well as carbonic oxide and hydrocyanic acid. The effects depend largely upon the nature of the tobacco and the manner of smoking it.

The most poison is derived from the smoking of cigars, less than cigarettes, still less from pipes, and least of all from the use of nargiles or any other apparatus in which the smoke is passed through water. Tobacco which has been artificially lightened in color is, in Dr. Zulanski's opinion, more dangerous than the darker kinds.

A Canal Through the Malay Peninsula.

[London Athenæum.]

Although the latest reports from the French engineers employed on the survey have demonstrated the impracticability of the proposed canal through the Krah isthmus, the French are still very keen on the question of piercing the Malay peninsula. The same engineers who were constrained to report unfavorably on the Krah scheme now declare that they have surveyed a feasible route less than fifty miles south of that originally proposed.

The route now suggested seems to be from Bangri on the west coast to Phanom, near the eastern, but considerable reticence is observed as to the details. M. de Lesseps, has, however, expressed his belief in the feasibility of the scheme.

Lumber Trade.

[Chicago Herald.]

Lumber pools are being formed to buy and hold timber lands until wanted. One pool has recently bought 3,000,000,000 feet, and refused to sell any. This sort of control is steadily growing, and will, in time, extend itself over enough timber territory to make a too rapid devastation of forest timber impossible.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

The Hon. Mr. Costigan, Minister of Inland Revenue, has introduced a bill amending the "Weights and Measures Act of 1879." The following are its principal provisions:

That two gallons shall be a peck, and eight gallons shall be a bushel. In contracts for the sale and delivery of any of the undermentioned articles, the bushel shall be determined by weighing, unless convenience for weighing are not available, or unless a bushel by measure is specially agreed upon in writing—the weight equivalent to a bushel being as follows:—Wheat, sixty pounds; Indian corn, fifty-six pounds; rye, fifty-six pounds; peas, sixty pounds; barley, forty-eight pounds; malt, thirty-six pounds; oats, thirty-four pounds; beans, sixty pounds; clover seed, sixty pounds; timothy seed, forty-eight pounds; buckwheat, forty-eight pounds; flax seed, fifty pounds; hemp seed, forty-four pounds; blue grass seed, fourteen pounds; castor beans, forty pounds; potatoes, turnips, carrots, parsnips, beats and onions sixty pounds; bituminous coal, seventy pounds. The penalty for the violation of any provision of the above section will be for the first offence not exceeding $25, and for each subsequent offence $50.

All apples packed in Canada for sale, shall be packed in good, and strong barrels of seasoned hardwood or basswood, made as nearly cylindrical as may be; the staves of such barrels shall be twenty-seven inches in length from croe to croe, with heads from sixteen and one-half to seventeen inches in diameter; and such barrels shall be sufficiently hooped, with a lining hoop within the chimes, the whole well secured by nails. The penalty for the violation of this clause is fixed at 25 cents for each barrel.

Section five provides that every hermetically sealed package of canned goods, such as fruit, vegetables, fish, meat, and the like, shall have the name and address of the packer, the weight of the contents of the tin, can or package, and the year when such contents were packed, legibly labelled or stamped thereon. A penalty of not less than $4 and not exceeding $20 can be imposed for any violation of the provisions of this clause; also for fraudulently altering or forging any label or stamp on any tin, can or package.

The governor-in-council may, in respect of any article or class of articles, fix a per centage of discrepancy, which shall be allowed between the represented weight and the actual weight of any tin, can or package of such hermetically sealed goods, and may except such articles as he deems meet from the operation of this section. This section shall not apply to any foreign goods of a description not canned in Canada for exportation, nor to any article from time to time excepted from the operation of this section by the Governor-in-Council, as hereinbefore provided. The foregoing provisions of this section shall come into force on the first day of October next, and not before.

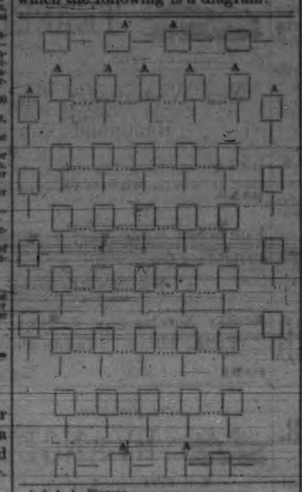
If any weight, beam, balance, measure or weighing machine is voluntarily given up or abandoned by the owner thereof to any inspector or assistant inspector of weights and measures as forfeited under the "Weights and Measures Act of 1879," or if any sum of money is voluntarily paid to any such inspector or assistant inspector, with the consent and approval of the Minister of Inland Revenue, as the amount of any penalty under the said act, such abandonment or payment shall be deemed to be a lawful abandonment or payment; and the weight, beam, balance, measure or weighing machine so abandoned or given up may be dealt with as if forfeited under the said Act, and the sum of money so paid may be dealt with as if it was a penalty recovered under the said Act.

The above are the provisions of a bill which is of special interest to farmers, as well as packers and traders generally.

A NEW oath, that is said to be regarded by Chinese witnesses as hopelessly binding, has been discovered in San Francisco. It is called the "yellow oath," and was employed for the first time in one of their courts yesterday. If the yellow oath shall justify the high expectations entertained of it, a long-felt want will be supplied. A red, white and blue oath of equal power is badly needed for Canadian use.

THE NORTHWEST ZAREBA.

The matter of transportation is one requiring a great deal of executive ability, and the Northwest field force is fortunate is having as chief of transportation, Col. S. L. Bedson, formerly of the English regular troops and now governor of the stony mountain penitentiary. This officer has 320 teams, which he has divided into divisions and sub-divisions, and he has orders to purchase a thousand more if necessary. As yet he has not had many opportunities to drill the teamsters, the principal point being to form what he calls "the Northwest zareba," of which the following is a diagram:



A A A A—Waggons.
B (dotted lines)—Picket ropes.

The plan is to have twenty-five waggons arranged in a square, and opposite the interstices, in the outer lines other waggons, while through the front wheels of the inner twenty-five, strong picket ropes, with double hitches around the spokes of the wheels, run. Such a zareba as that described would require forty-one waggons, and from the inner picket ropes it would be impossible to stampede horses. The diagram is necessarily cramped and gives the idea of lack of space, but the plan can readily be understood; also the advantages of such a formation in case of attack. When he has more teams, Col. Bedson will probably make the zareba with ten waggons in line and ten in depth. This, with the outer lines (nine to each side), would give a total of 136. With the 320 teams now at his disposal the chief calculates to transport 73,800 pounds of rations for men and 768,000 pounds of forage for animals, this amount to last for thirty days. It seems a little absurd to make such enormous preparations for transportation for so small a body of troops, especially as the transportation facilities will be enlarged as more troops arrive, but it must be remembered they are going into a country by far the major portion of which is uninhabited, while of the cultivated portion one part has been foraged by the insurgents and the other called upon to support the settlers and protective police.

SAN FRANCISCO Chronicle: "As we said, the dispute will keep, especially in that cold climate. But some day it must be settled. Sooner or later British Columbia will discover that its true interests were neglected when it was retained as British territory. It would have been far more prosperous to-day if it had become part of the Union years ago. As it is, it will never get over the colonial blight. Men don't grow to t'eir full size in colonies, any more than boys grow to advantage when they are kept in pinafores. British Columbia would make a fine State if it were under the stars and stripes and then there would be no more boundary squabbles. As matters stand it bids fair to continue to be a tail to the kite of Eastern Canada. If the Russians should happen to knock Victoria about the ears of its inhabitants they will be sorry they didn't step into our parlor when they had the chance."

THE postal authorities in Germany have complained to the European representative of the Canadian Pacific Railway that the mail trains have been detained on several occasions lately owing to the large amount of mail matter being disseminated in Germany and neighboring countries by that company. An officer of the post office department was detailed to devise some plan by which the difficulty would be obviated without prejudice to the company's interests, and this was accomplished by the department relaxing some of their regulations with regard to mail matter, which in Germany are particularly stringent.

THE Russian fleet in the Pacific consists of the Abreck, seven guns, 1684 tons; Gornostaj, gunboat, six guns, 456 tons; Mowe, Nerpa and Sobol, gunboats, seven guns each, 400 tons; Mirin, frigate, nineteen guns, 6000 tons; Opritchnik, eight guns, 1400 tons; Razboinik, twelve guns, 1352 tons; Djigit, twelve guns, 1400 tons. To meet this fleet in case of war there are twenty English men-of-war within reach which could speedily be put to work to protect British merchant vessels or harbors on the Pacific.

NEWFOUNDLAND has passed a revised tariff hostile to Canada. The following list is an example of the duties imposed: Flour, seventy-five cents; pork, one dollar fifty; butter, seventy-five cts. per hundred pounds; tobacco five cents per pound; kerosene oil, five cents per gallon; cornmeal, fifty-two and one-half cents per barrel. A Halifax correspondent writes that the effect will be, that unless Canada alters her tariff or gives her government unrestricted discretion to suspend action with regard to Newfoundland, that all trade between the two countries will cease after July.

THE PUBLIC HEALTH.

From the number of citizens who are reported sick with typhoid and other fevers, it would seem as though our sanitary condition had not greatly improved with the advent of the new Council. Of course there has not been much time in which to have made any radical change, and it would be unreasonable to hold the Councillors responsible for the present unhealthy condition of the city. But the Councillors must not lose sight of the fact that their special mission is to remove many of the causes that are generally supposed to have filled our hospitals—and graveyard—last summer and winter. A third of their term has already expired, and if they expect to accomplish anything in that direction before it is time for them to step down and out, they had better set about it without much further delay. Some time ago we heard a good deal about flushing the sewers, the use of disinfectants, drainage, etc. What is being done in that direction now?

BY A typographical error in an editorial yesterday the distance between Port Moody and Spence's Bridge was given as 66 instead of 166 miles.

Mr. Onderdonk's Freight Charges.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Mr. Onderdonk's letter of explanation and exoneration in the Colonist, anent railway freights, is just such a piece of diplomacy as might have been expected; in fact any one could have prepared his answer if not word for word—the rythm would have been the same. He was greatly obliging the public by carrying their freight at all is the only feasible excuse he can offer. I contend the expenses of side tracks, &c., mentioned as calling for so much outlay, would have had to have been incurred for the working of the line in any event, whether the public's freight was carried or not. There is no argument or reason stated why the cost of freights to Spence's Bridge should be twenty per cent on the approximate cost of the goods. Any trader can take his twelve months invoices, and freight bills, and compare the per centage paid for freight to verify my statement. A reduction on coal oil freight is awfully kind, when we consider that with stocks on hand, perhaps fifty cases, will last us as long as he is likely to hold the railway traffic. On flour also, it is simply a matter of buying only for immediate wants, or waiting till the change to the syndicate in July. What with an average of twenty-five per cent duty on imports, twenty to thirty per cent railway freight (according to the distance inside the Cascade mountains) and a further cost of delivery to various valleys, the entrepot of little mining camps and one horse settlements, the cost becomes so heavy as either to debar the public purchasing, or compel the trader to lose his profit. The money is not in the country for any such milking, and we hope only to stand just so much as compelled to. The little dabs of money storekeepers pay, we grant, are small, comparatively, odious in fact. What are a few tens of thousands to a man handling over ten millions, and why should a railway contractor be asked to do freights reasonably to the public, when the Canadian Government, either from neglect or indifference, have not seen fit to enforce it, when making agreements with the contractor. Reductions hinted at on two articles is a myth, coal oil is not wanted in long days, and there is plenty of flour at Kamloops. The chief source of gain is not in freights to outside traders, but supplies to the sub-contractors along the line. I remember a greedy school boy and the plum cake he had sent him from home. When asked for a taste, the invariable reply was, "those that ask shant have any, and those that don't ask don't want any." The moral of this is, any representations made by us for lower freights cannot be entertained for a moment, and none but the "too simple" will ask it.

MAINLANDER.

Church Unity.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—While casually casting an eye over your esteemed morning contemporary of Sunday, which as a rule is known to contain but little news of worth, I saw an account of a split in the congregation of Christ Church Cathedral at Montreal. Open violence, and much scandal seem to be the order of the day. We find the Rector inclined to favor High Churchism in placing the choir in surplices. It is also stated that scenes were witnessed of a discreditable character. All such splits should be carefully avoided as they tend to injure the church to an alarming extent and I may quote the words of our Lord: "Every Kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; every city or house divided against itself shall not stand."

It may not be known to the public in general that the congregation of Victoria Christ Church Cathedral has to some extent, a split in its midst and exactly on the same grounds as those at Montreal, and not only the congregation, but I hear the choir itself is divided in opinion. This may lead to a repetition of what has taken place in Montreal, and would, indeed, bring much disgrace on such a body of people as now attend Christ Church Cathedral. I should strongly advise those in authority to make no change. The service as now conducted is impressive and solemn.

A CHURCHMAN.

Lost in the Woods.

By information received from South Prairie, near Tacoma, Washington Territory, it appears that Mr. Frederick Friend and another man went out last December for a day's hunting in the vicinity of the above named place. As they did not return, search was made for them in the woods, but on account of a heavy snow storm, which prevailed for some days, they were not found. Some short time ago, however, Mr. Friend's body was discovered in a sitting posture against a tree, with his faithful dog dead beside him. The two guns which these gentlemen took with them were found against a tree, some distance from where Friend was. It is quite evident that the unfortunate men lost their way during the snow storm and starved to death. Mr. Friend was a resident of Cassiar for some years, and was also known on the Cariboo road. Messrs. Findlay, Durham & Brodie, of this city, have had business transactions in connection with the deceased and his family, who reside in England. Having personally known Mr. Friend, we can extend our heartfelt sympathies to his bereaved family.

IN THE MOUNTAINS.

The Condition and Progress of the Work of Construction.

The grading of the C. P. R. from the east is complete to Mountain Creek, which is spanned by a fine Howe truss bridge, 1100 feet long and 150 high. The structure is of iron. It will be finished this month. The winter was a favorable one for railroad work, there being only a couple of weeks of cold weather.

The gap between Mountain Creek and the end of Mr. Onderdonk's contract is about 150 miles, but the grading is in a forward condition. The distance between the first crossing of the Columbia and the summit of the Selkirks is 43 miles.

All the supplies come over the road from Montreal, as none are to be had in the mountain country. The supplies are excellent and the beef is reported as better than the Ontario article. Drinks are 50 cents.

The company are building a first-class road in every respect. With one exception all the grades are below the the government standard. It is intended to change the route of the line in an exceptionally bad place. This can easily be done. All ballasting has to be completed by the 15th of October.

An additional stretch of 82 miles, from Laggan to Beaver Creek was recently taken over for operation by the company. The scenery is described as superbly grand on the Selkirks.

The Columbia is 300 feet wide at the crossing, but not navigable above that point.

Prospectors are numerous and the searching for precious metals is quite an industry in that part of the country. Game is not abundant. Bears are numerous. The birds do not sing; their plumage is beautiful.

There is enough spruce, pine and cedar timber in the mountains adjacent to the railway to last the entire world for centuries. The cedar growth is perfectly wonderful; trees are to be met with from 7 to 9 feet in diameter and towering hundreds of feet heavenwards. Contractors have experienced no trouble in getting timber 16x16 100 feet long. Already there are five small sawmills at work between Laggan and Beaver Creek.

It is estimated that there are now employed on railway construction, directly and indirectly in this province 15,000 men and about 1,000 teams, besides mechanical appliances.

The country is perfectly marvellous. Immense tracts of unknown lands, full of treasures of various kinds, is being opened up by Canada's great material enterprise. The capabilities of the Dominion are as yet undreamt of; and she will soon be able to offer a home to the surplus people of all nations of the earth with a variety of climate to meet any choice, ample elbow room for all who come and best of all, a comfortable independence to be wrested from a soil rich and overflowing with a wealth of mineral and agricultural deposits meet for the need of all mankind.

THE CUSTOMS REGULATIONS.

Recent Changes Made by the House of Commons.

The House of Commons on the 9th inst., considered and adopted the following resolutions:

1st. That wherever duties of customs are imposed according to any specific quantity or degree of strength, or to any specific value, the same shall be deemed to apply in the same proportion to any greater or less quantity, degree of strength or value, and to any fractional part of such specific quantity or degree;

2nd. That the master of any vessel arriving in Canada by sea or by inland navigation and entering a Canadian port, harbor or anchorage for refuge against any stress of weather with the purpose of continuing her voyage when the weather permits, shall make a general report to the collector or proper officer of customs of such a place as to such vessel and her cargo and answer any such proper question as may be asked by such collector or officer under a penalty of not more than four hundred dollars nor less than one hundred for refusal or neglect to do so;

3rd. That if difficulty arises in determining the fair market value for duty on any goods imported into Canada of foreign or British manufacture, the price of which are published by or on behalf of the manufacturers or producers, the governor-in-council may determine a certain rate of discount which may be deducted from such published prices, or may fix the value of such goods for duty by a reasonable deduction from such prices and the values so determined shall be the value for duty;

4th. That in determining the dutiable value of goods imported, there shall be added to the actual wholesale prices or fair market value thereof on the principal markets of the country whence they are imported, the cost of inland transportation, shipment, or tran-shipment whether by land or by inland navigation, with all expenses included from the place of growth, production or manufacture, to the vessel in which the shipment thereof is made, and to or at the port whence such vessel finally clears for her voyage to Canada.

5th. That no transfer of the ownership of goods prior to entry shall be valid under the acts relating to customs unless such transfer is in writing, signed by the importer and produced to the collector to be properly entered by him.

6th. That no refunds of duty for inferiority or deficiency in quantity nor because of omission in the invoice of any trade or other discount which may reduce the value for duty, shall be made unless the same has been reported to the collector within one day from the entry and the proper rate of reduction of duty fixed, and that all such reductions shall be subject to the decision of the minister of customs, who may order such refund, and no refund or remission of duty shall be made after payment by reason of the loss of such goods by fire or otherwise.

7th. That persons transacting customs business must produce written authority from the alleged principal, who shall be bound by the acts of persons so acting as their agent;

8th. That any duly authorized attorney or agent may execute valid bonds on behalf of his principal but the collector may refuse to permit any such attorney or agent who has knowingly committed any fraud on the customs to act as such;

9th. That certain officers of customs, to be designated for that purpose in any acts relating to the customs, shall have power to administer oaths in cases in which they may be appointed to make investigation as to matters relating to the customs, and to summon and examine persons competent to give evidence on the matters inquired into;

10th. That the governor-in-council may transfer to the list of goods which may be imported free of duty any article used as materials in Canadian manufacture and such articles shall be free of duty till the order placing them on the free list shall be revoked.

BRITISH NAVY.

An Account of it's Strength and Character.

Citadel Ships, Monitors, and Cruisers —Turrets that Carry Eighty-Ton Guns.

The cost of the British navy has varied greatly at different periods. In 1814 the expenditure upon it was $93,000,000; in 1854 the expenditure was only $53,000,000. The Crimean war put it up to close upon $100,000,000 in 1856, after which there was a fall to a little more than half that figure. Last year the British naval expenditure was about $55,000,000; this year it will be considerably larger, but how much can only be determined when the accounts are closed. The number of vessels in the British navy, including gunboats, is 475, of which 75 are ironclads, of the latter 30 to 35 being usually in commission. The total number of ships in commission, including depot vessels, store ships, and training ships, is 240. Of these from 110 to 120 may be termed the active fleet, which is always at sea patrolling the coasts of the world. This fleet is divided into nine squadrons, viz:—The Channel, Mediterranean, North America and West Indies, Pacific, China, East Indies, Australia, Cape and West Africa, and southeast coast of America.

THE VARIOUS SQUADRONS.

The Channel Squadron, which guards the sea and straits between England and France, consists at present of six ironclads, only one of which—the Neptune—is a war ship of the first class. The other five are fine, handsome, powerful sea-going ships, but a little out of date as regards armor and armament. Besides them there are twelve other ironclads in commission on the British coast, guarding their respective stations vigilantly. The Mediterranean Squadron numbers 16 vessels, of which 7 are ironclads. All of the latter are very powerful ships, and two of them are the best in the British Navy. The North America and West Indies Squadron numbers 12 vessels, one of them—the Northampton—a large cruising ironclad, rated as a third class ship, but heavily armed and well suited for the service in which she is engaged. Four of the squadron are powerful, unarmoured frigates, and the remainder small vessels. There are 9 ships in the Pacific squadron, 21 in the China squadron, 10 in the East India squadron, 8 at the Cape and West coast of Africa, 5 on the Australian Coast, besides 3 or 4 surveying vessels and 4 on the southeast coast of America. The Pacific, China, and Australian squadrons have each an ironclad, the flagship of the latter being the Nelson, a sister ship to the Northampton, which is on our own coast. The Audacious, of the China, and Livingstone, of the Pacific, are also sister ships, less powerful than the Northampton, but good cruising vessels. Besides these ironclads there is one permanently stationed at Melbourne, two at Bombay, one at Hongkong, and one, in addition to two armoured gunboats, at Bermuda. This fleet is manned by 45,000 seamen and 12,500 marines, and about 25,000 men are employed in the dockyards, exclusive of many thousands employed in private yards on contract work for the Government. The naval reserve, consisting of men in the merchant service who are liable to be called upon in case of war, numbers 20,000 seamen.

THE INFLEXIBLE.

The Inflexible is the largest and most powerful ship of the British navy, and, leaving out of account Italy's four huge ironclads, which have never yet been tested, is the most formidable war ship in the world. It may be instructive to compare her with the Duke of Wellington, England's most powerful ship just thirty years ago:

	Displacement Tons.	Horse-power.	Guns.
Duke of Wellington	6,071	1,909	131
Inflexible	11,880	8,000	4

The largest guns mounted on the Duke of Wellington were 68 pounders, and, as she carried but few of that size, the weight of her whole broadside would not exceed 2000 pounds. Each of the four guns of the Inflexible carries a shot that weighs 1700 pounds, and all four can be fired at once and in the same direction. The Inflexible's guns are rifled; those of the Duke of Wellington were of the old fashioned cast iron pattern, and would make no more impression on a modern ironclad than a shower of hail. The Inflexible has a powerful ram, and carries a Whitehead torpedo apparatus. She draws 25½ feet of water, is provided with twin screws, and has a speed of 12 knots an hour. She can carry enough coal to take her across the Atlantic and back. The vessel cost $4,600,000, and 350 officers and men are her complement.

AJAX AND AGAMEMNON.

These two ships are exact reproductions of the Inflexible in every respect except size. They are 40 feet shorter, 14 feet narrower, and draw 25½ feet of water. Their displacement is 8,500 tons, and their speed 13 knots. In these vessels the citadel is 104 feet long, and the armor upon it 18 inches thick. The armored deck over the submerged hull is 6 feet below the water level, and the height of the citadel above the water is 9½ feet. The turrets are arranged in the same manner as those of the Inflexible, and they are armed with four 38 ton guns carrying a 760 pound shot. Each of these ships also carries two 6 inch rifled breechloaders.

DEVASTATION, THUNDERER AND DREADNOUGHT.

These three vessels are of the same class, although they differ in minor points of detail, and may be described as matchless monitors. The Devastation is 225 feet long, 62 feet wide, and draws 26 feet of water. Her hull, engines, boiler, and magazines are protected by 12 inches of armor at the sides, and her deck by three inches. She has two turrets, plated with 14-inch armor, and carries in them four 35 ton guns, capable of sending a projectile weighing 700 pounds.

The Thunderer is similar to the Devastation in every respect except that her four guns are of 38 tons and are worked by hydraulic machinery. She is about half a knot slower than the Devastation, her speed being 13½.

The Dreadnought, on the other hand, is more than half a knot faster than the Devastation, and is a bigger ship, being about 1500 tons larger. She carries heavier armor on her sides (14 inch instead of 12 inch), and her armament, like that of the Thunderer, is four 38 ton guns.

COLOSSUS AND EDINBURGH.

These two ships, which were launched in 1882, and are now about to be placed in commission, are like the Inflexible, but of different dimensions. The latter, with a length of 320 feet and a width of 75 feet, so that it was difficult to obtain much speed without a great waste of power. The new ships are 325 feet long, and only 68 feet wide, and their displacement is 9150 tons. They are very fast, the Colossus having a speed of 16½, and the Edinburgh 16 knots. Their armor is 18 inches thick and steel faced, and they each carry four 43 ton guns in their turrets and four 6 inch breechloaders. The 43 ton guns are also breechloaders, and greatly superior to the 38 and 35 ton guns with which the Devastation and Dreadnought are armed.

THE BARBETTE SHIPS.

The French have for some time past been building what are termed barbette ships, that is, ships in which the guns are mounted "en barbette" in open fixed turrets. The English adopted this principle in the Temeraire, which was launched in 1876, but modified it so that the guns in the turrets could be loaded under cover, and only appear above them when about to be fired. The English have built or are building six additional ships on the barbette plan, two of which—the Collingwood and the Rodney—are already launched, three more to be launched this year and one next year. The four still on the stocks are the Howe, Benbow, Camperdown, and Anson. All these ships, as regards the arrangement of their hull and central armed citadel, are similar to the Inflexible. They are all very fast, their speed being 16 knots or more, and they carry steel-faced armor 18 inches thick. The Collingwood is armed with four 43 ton breech loaders and six 4 ton guns. The Rodney, Howe, Camperdown, and Anson will each be armed with 63 ton guns, while the Benbow will have two enormous guns, each of 110 tons weight, sending a shot that will weight about a ton and a quarter. All these vessels are regarded as ironclads of the first-class, inferior only to the Inflexible. The latter, it should be stated, although at present only provided with 80 ton guns, can carry guns double that weight in her turrets, should ever guns of that size be made.

RIGGED TURRET SHIPS.

All the turret ships described above are unrigged vessels, depending on steam power alone. The Inflexible, indeed, has two short masts and carries a couple of thousand yards of canvas, but this is merely a piece of equipment, to be thrown aside at once in case of an engagement. The only fully rigged turret ships in the British navy are the Monarch and Neptune. The former vessel will be remembered as the ship that brought the body of the philanthropist, George Peabody, to this country. She has a displacement of 8,300 tons, can steam 15 knots, and carries four 25 ton and two 12 ton guns. Her armor is comparatively thin, being only 8 inches at the water line and 10 inches at the port holes of the two turrets. The Neptune is 1,000 tons larger and has 12 inch armor on the water line and 13 on her turrets. She is also far more heavily armed than the Monarch, carrying four 38 ton guns. In a recent Admiralty return she is rated as a ironclad of the first-class, but why that should be the case, when the Ajax and Agamemnon, with armor six inches thicker and equally heavy guns, are only classed as second rates, is not easy to understand. The Neptune has a speed of 14 knots. She was originally built for Brazil, but was purchased by the British Government in 1878 for $3,200,000.

PERSONAL MENTION

Captain Clements will leave to-morrow morning for Yale, where he intends spending a week in recreation.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Draney are home again after a pleasant visit to Ottawa.

Mr. Hanington, brother to Dr. Hanington, Yale, and a customs officer at Shediac, N. B., is now on a visit to British Columbia.

A. W. Vowell, Esq., gold commissioner at Kootenay, leaves to-morrow morning for that district.

Mr. A. G. McCausland, representing the Colt Firearms Co., is at present in Victoria.

Doctors Milne and Harrison, who are in attendance on Hon. Judge O'Reilly, report that gentleman as progressing very favorably.

Mr. Theo. Davie is considerably better to-day. In a few days he will be able to resume his profession.

The Queen's Birthday.

The committee appointed to arrange for the celebration on the 24th of May met in the City Hall last evening. Messrs. John Fee, John Griffiths and C. N. Gowen were appointed a committee to represent the Base Ball Club, and Messrs. S. Oppenheimer, T. Deasy, and W. H. Paine to represent the Athletic Club. Mayor Rithet was requested to confer with the officers of H. M. S. Satellite. On motion it was resolved that His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Capt. Arlington and officers of H. M. S. Satellite, His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors and J. F. Innes be patrons. Messrs. R. T. Williams, C. Gowen, W. McNiffe and J. Braden were appointed to solicit subscriptions. The meeting adjourned for one week.

The Alaska Boundary.

San Francisco Chronicle: After the English have settled the boundary line between Russia and Afghanistan they will have to settle a similar dispute with this country. We are in no hurry, and we will not in any event play Russian with them, and advance troops into the disputed country while engineers are defining the boundary. But neither will we do as we did at the time of the Oregon dispute, and surrender a territory that is obviously ours, with the moral certainty that the surrender will at some distant day involve the two countries in war. When the British have quite got out of their present difficulties the United States will trouble them to appoint a commission to act in concert with a similar commission from this country, to draw the boundary line between Alaska and the Canadian Dominion, in accordance with treaties and the recognized principles of international law.

Special Dispatches to THE TIMES.

Gen. Graham's Recall.

LONDON, April 21.—The Daily News in an editorial this morning says it is believed that the Government has decided upon the immediate recall of Gen. Graham's forces from the Soudan.

The Dynamiters.

LONDON, April 21.—The grand jury this afternoon returned true bills against Cunningham and Burton for treason and felony, and also commended the police for their management of the affair.

Constructing a Road to Herat.

LONDON, April 21.—The British cabinet has been summoned to meet to-day to discuss important measures. It is stated that Russia declines to subscribe to a distinct and definite obligation that she will on no account advance her forces beyond the boundary settled by the joint commission, which England proposes as the only stable settlement. Meshed advices of April 20th state that the Russians are still at Avopa. Gen. Komaroff has gone to Sarikhs and Gen. Alikhenoff to Yulatin. Russians are compelling the Sarikhs to construct military roads towards Herat through Penjdeh. The Afghans evince great anxiety to learn the English policy in regard to Afghanistan. The Herald, referring to Sir Peter Lumsden's boundary, says it has neither the face to go nor the intention to stay.

The Money Market.

LONDON, April 21.—1:30 p. m.—Consols opened this forenoon at 95¾ for money and account. They soon after rose to 96, but almost immediately reacted to 95¾. Russian securities are dull and opened lower this morning at 85¾. American securities are the strongest upon the list and are steady. The feeling in the exchanges this forenoon is even more gloomy than at the close of last night. The dealings on all securities except American are very light, and operators prefer waiting to see what may be done in the House of Commons this afternoon before going into the market on either side. It is confidently expected that even the confidence of Mr. Gladstone Ministry is worn out at last.

1:35 p. m.—Consols 95⅞ for both. Russian securities about steady.

2 p. m.—Consols for both accounts 95 13-16.

3 p. m.—Consols are now quoted 95⅝, having lost all the advance made in the early part of the day over the opening price, which was the same as that quoted. This makes a decline of 13-16 from the closing prices last night.

4 p. m.—Consols, 95⅝.

The Prince in Dublin.

DUBLIN, April 21.—On the arrival of the Prince and Princess of Wales here last night, a slight attempt was made by the Nationalists to create a disturbance. The police succeeded in dispersing them.

Special Dispatches to THE TIMES.

To Take Herat.

WARSAW, April 21.—Troglist, the Russian organ, states that Russia is making the necessary preparations for the taking of Herat.

A War Cloud Advancing.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 21.—The Journal de St. Petersburg insists that the accounts of the battle of Kushk river made by Gen. Komaroff and Sir Peter Lumsden agree, notwithstanding the English opinions to the contrary. It says a full statement of the affair from Gen. Komaroff cannot be had for several weeks. The St. Petersburg Gazette says the occupation of Penjdeh was a good answer to the imprudent seizure by England of the Island of Port Hamilton. The Novo Vremia says the exchange has again fallen, and a war cloud is advancing.

The Late Ameer.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 21.—It is rumored here that Ayoub Khan, formerly Ameer of Afghanistan, who was arrested at Teheran, was taken into custody by order of Russia, and that he will be kept at the disposal of the Russian government. One of the uses to which it is said he would be put if it becomes necessary, will be to produce schism among the Afghan troops.

A Fresh Advance.

BRUSSELS, April 21.—A Cipher dispatch received from St. Petersburg last night announces a fresh advance of Russian forces upon the Afghan country. The dispatch also said there was a rumor current of disturbances in northern Hindostan against England.

To Seize Herat.

WARSAW, April 21.—The Tagblatt announces this forenoon that it is the intention of Russia to immediately make a descent upon Herat, capture it and strongly fortify the place. It also states the damage thus done to Great Britain in India would far exceed any loss to Russian commerce by a blockade of Russian ports.

The Last Difficulty.

VIENNA, April 21.—The Politisch Correspondence states that the real points of the difficulty between England and Russia are the bridges at Pulikhisti and Akrabia, which command Herat, and which Russia insists upon retaining.

Wagner's Life.

VIENNA, April 21.—It is announced that the correspondence of Richard Wagner, which has been edited by Herr Kastner, will appear in print some time in May. The correspondence compises the period of Wagner's life from 1830 to '83.

Central America.

Special Dispatches to THE TIMES.

The Central American Rumpus

PANAMA, April 21.—The arrival of the steamer Acapulco places a very strong force of American marines and sailors on the Isthmus. It was expected that the landing of this force would cause much irritation, and this was true, more feeling on the subject, however, being displayed by the French than the Columbians. The latter understood the proceedings better than the former. All opposition has now ended. The American force is distributed as follows: Two battalions consisting of 374 marines and 140 sailors, with a battery of Hotchkiss and Gatling guns and a Dahlgren. The Peace Commission from Panama reached Buena Ventura on Friday. The commission was ignored, and the canal launch conveying the members of the commission, was captured. The war ship Boyaca is towing an English bulk and a canal launch, is towing the Italian bark Geneva with 1000 men on board, who will attack Aizpurn. At Panama the revolutionists avow that they will resist this force, and state that its presence is an evasion of one sovereign state by another, and it is not a national effort to enforce authority. Troops are reported to be embarking at Buena Ventura for this place. Serious trouble is expected, and it is believed can only be avoided by foreign intervention. Canal work is hindered, business being destroyed, and the inhabitants are in a state of alarm. Many families are leaving there.

Belleville Flooded.

A dispatch from Belleville says that the damage caused by the flood on the 17th inst. is much greater than was supposed last night. Many of the dwellings, barns and other buildings have been wrecked, and fences and trees uprooted. The water rose so rapidly people had to leave their dwellings very hastily. One woman was nearly killed by a cake of ice forcing open her door and pinning her to the floor. Large numbers of cattle, pigs and sheep perished. The loss is estimated at $100,000. The jam moved down stream 200 yards, when the water fell three feet.

Funeral of Sister Winnifred.

The funeral of Sister Winnifred, whose death took place at 2:15 this morning, will leave St. Joseph's Hospital Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock, and High Mass will be held at the Cathedral by His Grace Archbishop Seghers at 9 o'clock. Her loss will be deeply felt by those who have been associated with her in the past.

Death of Mrs. Ettershank.

We are sorry to have to announce the death of Mrs. Ettershank, wife of Pilot Wm. Ettershank, which occurred this morning. The deceased lady has been ailing for about two months past, and was but 22 years of age at the time of her death. Mr. Ettershank has our sincere sympathy in his bereavement.

Died at Savona.

John Velatti died at the above place yesterday. Mr. Velatti was for many years in Cariboo, and was also engaged in business successfully for some time in Yale, which he left to embark in the brewery business at Savona, in company with another well known Caribooite, Mr. Pendola.

LONDON PHYSICIANS.

What the Famous Ones Charge—Fees of the Cheap Practitioners—Starting Out.

[London Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.]

The usual fee for a consulting physician in London is calculated by the mileage covered in visiting a patient. One guinea per mile is the charge paid, but, of course, when a man of the standing of Clarke, Ferrier, Critchett, or Barnes attends a consultation in the country the fee is enormous, as any of these men would not probably be away from London for twenty-four hours for less than $500. The fee of any ordinary practitioner for visiting a patient at his or her residence may be set down at 5 shillings. The semi-fashionable physcian's fee will be double that amount, while the shining lights of the profession will not visit a patient under 2 guineas, though they will treat one at their office for half that sum. There are hundreds of doctors in London, however, who will pay a visit to the house and prescribe for the patient for half a crown, and there are scores of fully qualified and able medical men in London who will pay three visits to a sick person and provide him with medicine for the absurdly small sum of 50 cents.

By this it will be seen that competition is as keen here amongst members of the medical procession as it is amongst business men and shopkeepers. The cheap doctors I have spoken of keep dispensaries, chemist shops in fact, and here they attend for several hours daily and see persons three times a week, finding all medicine, for the pagatelle of 25 cents. I am aware that this statement must seem preposterous to American readers, but I can vouch for the truth of it. I firmly believe, too, that many of these doctors are far more successful in the treatment of diseases than their more experienced brethren. These men see disease of every variety and in every stage and in a single day treat as many persons as their high-toned brethren attend in the course of a month.

It takes a great deal more capital to enable a medical man to start in practice in this country than it does in America. The juvenile sawbones fresh from the vitiated atmosphere of the dissecting-room has but to purchase a shingle and hire the use, for a few hours daily, of a parlor in New York, Philadelphia or Boston, to become a practicing surgeon and physician. Over here, however, the case is widely different. No young doctor would not think of starting in the profession until he could take and furnish a house throughout, erect a handsome red lamp outside his door and put up a brass plate of Brobdingnagian proportions. Furthermore, he will have little hope of success unless he can from the first support the expense of a brougham, a coachman in livery and a page boy to carry out the medicine to possible patients. In short, there are few young men who would think of starting in practice for themselves until they were in a position to spend at least $2,000 during the first year of their practice.

A Plea for Humorous Literature.

[Bloomington Through Mail.]

Humor is the most popular of all literature, and justly so. It is that element of sunshine which is necessary to mental and moral health. We never find a laughing, jolly fellow committing suicide or murder, nor does the man who is feeling gay and happy, harbor immoral thoughts. No man ever took his own life in a humorous mood. It is brooding and sleeplessness that drives men to suicide, and any reputable physician will endorse our declaration that if a man can laugh heartily for fifteen minutes before retiring, he will enjoy a restful sleep.

When the mind is weighed down by the cares of business, something to relieve it of its burden of thought and lead it into more peaceful and quiet paths, is necessary. At such a moment, a copy of some sprightly paper is worth a ton of physic, for physic cannot purge the brain of burning thoughts, while reading something light and airy and pure, fills the darkened chambers of the mind with sunshine and drives the ghosts of imagination out. No two thoughts can exist in the brain at once. Darkness and light are quantities that do not mix. If gloom fills every recess, when the light comes to occupy its tenement, light alone will remain. If the happy thought once enters, gloom must find another home.

Too Good for a Clerk.

[Chicago News.]

Dry Goods Merchant—So, sir, you think you could learn to become a salesman?

"Yes, sir."

"Well, suppose you were waiting on that man and his wife over at the lace counter. What would you do first?"

"I should hold up the best piece of lace in the stock and ask the man if he didn't think it becoming to his daughter's style of beauty.

"Well, what then?"

"Oh, nothing. The woman would take care of the rest of it."

"Young man, I don't want you for a clerk. I want you for a partner."

A Curious New Plant.

[Pall Mall Gazette.]

To the number of curious plants, such as the carnivorous and fly-catching plant, a new specimen has lately been added which is described as the traveling plant. It is said to be of the lily of the valley species (Convallaria polygamatum), and has a root formed of knots, by which it annually advances about an inch distant from the place where the plant was first rooted. Every year another knot is added, which drags the plant further on, so that in twenty years' time the plant has traveled about twenty inches from the original place.

Demand for Port Wine.

[The Argonaut.]

Port wine has been supposed to be out of fashion, its gouty tendencies have led to its discontinuance at the dinner table. But the Feurtreds, the great wine merchants at Oporto, have published a statement showing that the number of pipes exported has steadily increased during the last fifty years, the increase being especially marked during the past decade. The explanation is that port, which was formerly the favorite beverage of statesmen, has become the coveted resource of invalids.

France's Suspension Bridges.

[Professor E. C. Marshall.]

I have had occasion lately to read up in French everything that I could find on the subject of bridges. I discover that the French have more suspension bridges than any nation on the globe. Their engineers are putting up suspension bridges everywhere, and at least one of the structures approximates to the size of Brooklyn bridge. So numerous are such bridges in France that it is impossible to secure an accurate list of them on this side of the water.

The ground mole, in proportion to its size, excels all other animals in strength of jaw and shoulder. A battle between male moles generally ends with the death of both.

Great Britain's Coal.

It is estimated that Great Britain's coal supply will be exhausted in about 105 years if the present increase in the rate of consumption continues.

A BY-LAW

To Enable the Corporation of the City of Victoria to Raise the Sum of $70,000 for Water Works Purposes.

WHEREAS IT IS EXPEDIENT TO RAISE a further sum of money for the purpose of extending the Water Works, constructing reservoirs to ensure a more certain and equitable supply of water to all parts of the City, for carrying on the said Water Works upon such a scale as may be necessary to furnish an adequate supply of fresh water to the increasing population of the City; for the greater protection of the City against fire, and for other purposes in connection with the said Water Works.

And whereas it is estimated that the sum of $70,000 will be required for the above named purposes:

And whereas it is desirable and expedient that the above named sum of $70,000 should be obtained in the manner hereinafter mentioned;

And whereas the amount of the whole rateable property of the said Corporation, according to the last revised assessment roll,—that is, the assessment roll for 1885, was $3,092,285;

And whereas the sum of $6,572 yearly will be required to create a sinking fund for the due repayment of the said principal sum of $70,000 and interest thereon, as hereinafter mentioned, to provide which an additional annual special rate of 5-20 of one cent in the dollar will be required.

BE IT THEREFORE ENACTED by the Mayor and Council of the Corporation of the City of Victoria as follows:

1. It shall be lawful for the Mayor of the said City to raise by way of loan from any person or persons, or body or bodies corporate, who may be willing to advance the same upon the credit of the debentures hereinafter mentioned, a sum of money not exceeding in the whole the sum of $70,000, and to cause the same to be paid into the hands of the Treasurer of the said Corporation for the purpose and with the object hereinbefore recited.

2. It shall be lawful for the said Mayor to cause any number of debentures, for not less than $500 each, to be made for such sums of money as may be required for the purpose of the said loan, and all such debentures shall be sealed with the common seal of the said Corporation and signed by the Mayor.

3. The said debentures shall be made payable in thirty years at furthest from the day hereinafter mentioned for this by-law to take effect, at the office of the Treasurer of the said Corporation and shall have attached to them coupons for the payment of the interest.

4. The said debentures shall bear interest at the rate of seven per cent per annum from the date thereof, which interest shall be payable half yearly, at the office of the said Treasurer.

5. For the purpose of forming a sinking fund for the payment of the said debentures, and the interest to become due thereon, an equal special rate of 5-20 of one cent in the dollar shall in addition to all other rates be raised, levied and collected in each year upon all rateable property during the continuance of the said debentures, or any of them.

6. Section 2 of the Victoria Supreme By-law, 1881, is hereby amended by striking out the words "eight-tenths" and substituting the words "eleven-twentieths."

7. It shall be lawful for the said Corporation, from time to time, to repurchase any of the said debentures, and all debentures so repurchased shall be forthwith cancelled and no reissue of debentures shall be made in consequence of such repurchase.

8. This by-law shall take effect on the first day of June, 1885.

9. This by-law may be cited for all purposes as the "Water Works Loan By-Law, 1885."

Passed the Municipal Council this fifteenth day of April, A. D. 1885.
